

ANNIE RUSSELL SEEKS DIVORCE.

The Famous Ingenue Brings Suit Against Eugene
W. Presbrey.

THEY WEDDED IN HASTE.

Left the Theatre Where She Was Playing "Elaine" and Were Quietly Married.

AN INVALID FOR TWO YEARS.

Friends Sent Her to Italy, Where She Regained Her Health and Returned to New Stage Triumphs.

Theatrical circles were not especially surprised when it was learned yesterday that Mrs. Eugene W. Presbrey, known in professional life as Annie Russell, had begun action in the Supreme Court for an absolution to send her to Italy for treatment.

Her professional friends gave her a bendict which was one of the largest in the history of the city, nearly $5,000 being realized. She went to Italy and two years later her hundreds of friends and admirers in this country were gratified to learn of her complete recovery.

The following year she appeared as leading lady with Nat Goodwin. Last night she appeared for the first time in New York in Madeline Lucette Riley's comedy,
"The Mysterious Mr. Bugle."

Mr. Presbrey's last work in New York was the staging of the Daudet-Bizet dramatic opera, "L'Arlésienne" at the Broadway Theatre. Whether he will defend the action brought by his wife or not could not be learned last night.

Mrs. Finnegan, thirty-five years old and unmarried, who was a cook for the family of Grover Cleveland when he resided at No. 12 West Fifty-first street during the Presidential campaign of 1892, died suddenly yesterday morning when she was employed at the house of J. D. Archbold, one of the leading members of the Standard Oil Company, at No. 20 East Thirty-seventh street.

Miss Finnegan was seized with illness as she was about to leave the house to visit some friends and died in a few minutes. Mr. Archbold notified the Coroner's office and Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon found that death was due to Bright's disease.

The body was removed to the home of

DRIVER CHASED BY THE CROWD.

He Had Run Over Two Little Girls on Market Street.

WEE LITTLE TOTS, THEY.

Each Was Named Ida, and the Elder Was Only Four Years Old.

Hand in hand the two bright-eyed little girls ran in front of the wagon. They did not notice it, and indeed, they were too young to realize the danger, even if they had. They were wee little tots, too young to be allowed on the street alone, but in the crowded East Side the life of children of all ages is, in pleasant weather, on the streets.

The two children were Ida Lipschitz, of No. 19 Henry street, and Ida Chevalier, of No. 27 Market street, and while one Ida was three years old the other had attained the mature dignity of four. They were running across Market street, near Henry, for on the farther side of the street stood a third little girl, holding up a stick of candy, which she was ready to divide into three parts.

The wagon, loaded with furniture, was driven by Gus Bischoff, of No. 208 West Fifty-third street. His horses were going at a trot, when right in front of them darted the two little children. The driver shouted a warning and pulled hard on the reins, but the pavement was smooth and the momentum could not be overcome quickly. The children were struck and went down together.

The driver stopped his horses and a crowd quickly gathered. The people were angry. Men and women shaking their fists at Bischoff, shouted curses in the score of different languages of that section. Thoroughly frightened Bischoff tried to escape. He whipped up his horses, drove them through the angry crowd, and started them on a lumbering gallop down the street and around the next corner.

The father of the Charlian child led the crowd in pursuit. The driver, with a blanched face, kept plying his whip. At Madison and Catherine streets Policeman James Kelly ran out and seized the driver's horse. The thoroughly frightened driver was only too glad to be arrested, and in the policeman's charge drove to the Oak Street Station.

Meanwhile an ambulance had been summoned, and Ida Charlian, who was not severely injured, was taken to her home.
The other child was taken to Gouverneur Hospital. It is feared that her skull is fractured.

Magistrate Cornell discharged Bischoff.
James O'Brien, a lively stable owner, of No. 352 East Sixty-sixth street, was driving a two horse carriage along East Fifty-fourth street yesterday forenoon, and his progress was retarded by youngsters playing in the street. O'Brien sought to them, and all scampered into safety except Beckie Canlar, four years old, of No. 418 West Fifty-fourth street. She fell in front of the horses and the rear wheel of the carriage passed over her right leg.

O'Brien picked the child up, and placed it in the carriage, to take it to the Flower Hospital, when the mother ran up to him, and screamed for help. A policeman arrested O'Brien. The mother got into the carriage with the child and drove to the Flower Hospital, where the child's injuries were dressed. Then O'Brien was taken to the East Fifty-seventh Street Station. The mother demanded $25 for medical atten-dence, and said that if O'Brien would pay that she would not prosecute. O'Brien agreed to pay all bills sent to him, and he was permitted to go. He drove the mother and child back to their home in his carriage.

Few Friends to Follow the Body of the Tweed Ring Witness to the Grave.

The body of Andrew Jeffries Garvey will be buried in Woodlawn Cemetery this afternoon. The funeral is in charge of William Collier, sexton of Dr. John Hall's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

There will be no services in the city.
The few friends who have been invited will gather at the Grand Central Station and take the 2:30 p. m. train, which will also convey the body to the cemetery. The pallbearers will be provided by the undertaker. At the grave the only religious service will be a prayer by a Brooklyn clergyman.

Mr. Garvey's first wife is buried in the lot where he will lie. The chief mourners will be his second wife and his nephew, William Harold Jarrett, who arrived with the body from Southampton on the steamship New York on Saturday.

There will be no services in the city.
The few friends who have been invited

a linotype operator, has made a new world's record for eight hours' machine composition, setting in that time 89,572 ems of solid nonpareil.

ONE DEAD, THREE TRIED.

Charles Baltich Cuts His Wrist, Scherer Tries to Blow Out His Brains, Greco Died by Gas.

Charles Baltich, a painter, forty-seven years of age, of No. 291 Pleasant avenue, yesterday attempted to commit suicide by inhaling illuminating gas and slashing the arteries in both wrists. This is the third unsuccessful attempt which Baltich has made to take his life inside of two years.

Baltich has four sons, two of whom, Felix and Henry, live with him.

Yesterday when Henry awakened the house was filled with gas. He found his father had unscrewed a chandelier. This was remedied and the father brought back to consciousness. An hour later he was found with his wrists cut and the chanddollar again unscrewed.

Policeman Kelly summoned an ambulance. After his wounds were dressed he was held for trial in the Harlem Court.

Edward Scherer, a Swiss silk weaver, sixty-four years of age, of No. 238 First street, attempted suicide last night, yesterday afternoon by shooting himself in the right temple with a revolver, at No. 354 Third avenue. Scherer had been out of employment for some weeks and had grown in result a despondent.

Scherer was taken to the Erasmus Hospital. In his pocket was found a letter addressed to J. Scherer, telling of his intention to kill himself.

Sebastiano Greco, an Italian, was found dead yesterday morning in a room in the Raines Law Hotel, of West 42d & Roseburg, at No. 173 Avenue A, having died of asphyxiation. It is said that he arrived in this city from Italy Monday.

He was accompanied to the hotel Monday by two Italians, who had taken his language and what money he had for safekeeping. He expected them to return to the hotel. He was going West. They did not come back. The police are investigating.

St. Louis, April 19.—General Powell Clayton, United States Minister to Mexico, who has been for some time threatened with pneumonia, is sufficiently recovered to depart for his home in Little Rock.

Niagara Suicide May Be Markham.
Buffalo, April 19.—The man who committed suicide at Niagara Falls Saturday is believed to have been Ernest F. Markham, an advertising attaché of the Boston Journal.
